AN IMPORTANT SALE OF GEMS AND ANTIQUES.

That Gems and Jewelry have from the earliest times been identified with the history, religion, fads and personal adornment of the human race is attested by examples dating from the fifteenth century before Christ in this very sale. That sparkling gems will continue to be vital factors in the spreading of joy and happiness as long as things of beauty are loved, and as long as the earth shall be peopled, is also undisputed. Who has not some sort of an interest in gems? Who will not admire them even when the physical body is weakened and when interest in almost all other things has waned? Beautiful gems and jewelry are "joys forever"; they delight and rest the eyes. Their wearers may live and depart but jewels shed rare beauty long after the memories of former owners have faded.

There are so many hundreds—yes thousands—of Gem Stones of all imaginable shapes, sizes and colors, in this collection—or collections rather, for the lots belong to several persons —that it is hard to know where to begin to emphasize and illustrate.

Here are scores of varieties of materials, and the no less than twelve hundred lots afford a special, perhaps an unprecedented opportunity to secure many classes of stones at public sale. The designs and shapes include faceted, cabochon (or round topped), oval, rectangular, heart, pear, acorn, drop and many other special styles and designs, not to mention the innumerable shades of colorings. There are cut stones from a size so minute that the eye can scarcely detect them to massive round faceted Topaz several inches in diameter, so that almost any reasonable wish in sizes and colors may be gratified.

Included are various classes of Opals, Tourmalines, Sapphires, Emeralds, Pearls, Peridots, Jargoons, Hyacinths, Beryls, Chrysolites, Aqua Marines, Turquoise and Matrix, Moon Stones, Jades, Spinels, Rubies, Amethysts, Topaz, Garnets, Malachites, Jaspers, Agates, Carnelians, Labradorites, Thomsonites, Rose Quartz, Variscites, Amazonites, Chalcedony, Quartz, Sodalites, Pink Topaz, Chrysophrase, Lapis Lazuli, Onyx, Cat's Eyes,

Crocidolites, Serpentine, Sun Stone, Etc. It may be truthfully said of these gems—especially in view of the present popularity of semi-precious stones, that in this entire collection there is scarcely a stone which could not be utilized for jewelry purposes. Many of the stones are of a quality to interest jewelers and gem cutters, while some of the lots are of a size to be suitable for them. There are pieces of unusual size which should interest museums. Among these may be mentioned the large and fine lot of partly polished Agates and Semi-Precious Stones. This sale contains hundreds of Cameii, Intaglii and Seals, both antique and modern, including some choice examples of the modern Italian workman's art.

Miniatures on ivory include one of Charles Dickens, executed in 1864. There are two embroidered cases, one containing locks of hair of the Marquis Wellington, and his family.

Scattered here and there through the catalogue will be found many odd and interesting bits of jewelry, both antique and modern, Chinese and Japanese pieces, Agate Bowls, Antiques of the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans, Glass, Scarabs and Coins. Interest is added by a small, but choice lot of Old and Rare Weapons, Spears, Swords, Cutlasses, Pistols and Blunderbusses. American Colonial, Continental and later Bronze Coins are listed.

The sporting fraternity should appreciate two of the lots offered by the Estate of the late B. C. Williams, Esqr., a former member of the New York Stock Exchange, one a gold watch presented by New York admirers to Mr. Cusack, trainer and second of Heenan, who fought the famous prize-fight with Sayers in 1860. This watch is inscribed, and portrays the two fighters in combat. The second lot is the remarkably heavy gold watch and chain presented some years ago by the members of the New York Athletic Club to Mr. Williams, who was one of its charter members and patrons.
